bar Daskal

Bar Daskal is a Spanish wine and cocktail bar located in London Bridge's Borough Yards. The bar is named after seafaring artist, Vladimir Daskaloff, who worked under the name 'Daskal', and set up a home and studio in Estellencs, Mallorca after many years at sea.

Daskal was the grandfather of the bar's owners, Sam, Eddie and James Hart, who grew up visiting him in Estellencs, and still visit the family home with their own kin to this day. Daskal and his home inspired an abiding love of Spain, its produce and culture. At Bar Daskal we hope you will find a pocket of that in London.

Bar Daskal offers an exclusively Spanish wine and sherry list and a short list of cocktails made with Spanish spirits. To eat, there are cold tapas and snacks, from expertly sourced Spanish jamon and cheeses, to classic tortilla wedges with alioli, piquant gildas and a 'coca of the day'.

Upstairs at Bar Daskal can host up to 25 people for a private party, with its own bar, overlooking Park Street. We also offer exclusive hire of the whole venue for larger celebrations.

Capacities:

From Sam and James Hart and Crispin Somerville, the Pastors were inspired by Sam and Crispin's time living in Mexico. The restaurants are committed to using the best Mexican heritage corn and ingredients available, offering a considered selection of mezcal and tequila and always having a good time.

El Pastor Soho is the newest member of the Pastor family of taquerias; bringing tacos, tostadas, mezcal and fiesta spirit to London's lively West End. The ground floor transports you to the faded grandeur of many of the late 19th Century buildings of Mexico City. The verdant private dining room is available for hire.

Capacities:

Below, you'll find basement bar 'Mezcaleria Colmillo,' named after the nightclub EP co-founders Sam and Crispin ran in the 90s and 00s in Mexico City. This area is available for exclusive hire.
